ADVANCED ENERGY SAVINGS

For most homeowners, lowering fuel costs for heating and cooling is a key motivation for purchasing new windows. Windows are roughly 80% glass, so it's important to choose an energy-efficient glass system for your home and specific climate conditions.

Gentek casement and awning windows are built with high-performance insulating glass that incorporates the Super Spacer[®] "warm-edge" structural foam spacer system. Best of all, our BarrierXP[®] Plus insulating glass package comes standard and combines multilayer low-emissivity (Low-E) glass and argon gas along with the Super Spacer[®] for advanced energy savings.²

Low-E glass features a virtually clear, metallic coating that acts as a thermal mirror, reflecting radiant heat back into your home during winter and reducing unwanted solar energy in the summer.

Gentek casement and awning windows are available with a variety of other glass packages to let you customize your project's performance.
